One indication of this is the currency of the Postured bulletins, but the public are confident of a successful result.

Berlin telegrams show that the battle of Marne is followed with feverish anxiety in Germany.

There is a general belief among the commercial classes that a crushing defeat of Germany would enable Germany to dictate peace terms.

The Admiralty states that 1250 overseas arrived at and sailed from the United Kingdom during the war.

Not one of the men was torpedoed. This is the first that no vessels were torpedoed.

The United States Secretary of the Navy is overhauling the speed and capacity of all American merchantmen.

This is regarded as an indication that the Government is considering the possibility of an armistice.

German submarine in the Black Sea are markedly affecting the situation in the Bosphorus.

British coal supplies are at a standstill
and the maritimes munition factories.

The Turks attacked some newly-erected trenches in the French section, but were readily repulsed.

In the British section steady progress
has been made.

The Turkish atrocities against the Armenian race have stopped.

The whole male population of the British region (Asia Minor) was massacred.

The first contingent of Australian and New Zealand soldiers have now arrived and have been sent to the front.

The Italian movement in the vicinity of Gatteo is sweeping all before it.

General Cadorna's troops are wrenching the country yard by yard.

King George visited the munition works and the hospital at Birmingham. His appreciation of the work of the Australians and New Zealanders at the Dardanelles.

Sunday, July 25, has been appointed a day
for national prayer.

A public service will be conducted upon the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral.

The 2nd and 3rd branch lines Brisbane has been got under control. She has dispensed with the services of the Okaki.

General Botha was accorded a magnificent welcome on his arrival in Capetown.

The Government has had under consideration the question of summarising the armament of the beginning of the war.

It has been decided that strenuous efforts will be directed to make August 2 a round morning day.

The bands of the church have been appointed with a view to special recruiting

in the various Synods. Australia

details in connection with the route march of the military and naval forces on Australia

Day have been completed.

The processions will leave the Outer Docks at 12 noon and will traverse the city

and will be divided into 10 sections.

Brigadier-General E. T. Tivis, D.S.O., has
been appointed to command the 4th Infantry
Brigade, accepted by the War Office.

President E. Ryde, of the Melbourne
University, has accepted a seat on the Munitions
Committee.

Over 200 men were recruited at the Vicar of Barkers yesterday, the total for the week ending yesterday.

They will be soon street collectors, and will traverse the city

and will be divided into 10 sections.

Brigadier-General E. T. Tivis, D.S.O., has
been appointed to command the 4th Infantry
Brigade, accepted by the War Office.

President E. Ryde, of the Melbourne
University, has accepted a seat on the Munitions
Committee.

A meeting was held at the Town Hall respecting the strength of the bands of those working in the War-time investment.

The War Loan Bill for £200,000,000 was passed through all its stages in the Senate.

The Finance Committee of the Commonwealth
met with the Minister of Finance.

He took a gloomy view of the resources for the next 12 months. Whether they would diminish depends on the war.

A collecting and distributing depot for the time of emergency was established in the House of Representatives.

The Minister for Home Affairs stated that the depot would be opened to the public by the end of this month.

Mr. Kelly asked the Prime Minister to appoint a Royal Commission to inquire into the metal contracts.

Mr. Fisher said he did not propose to do anything in that direction.

He did not give a formal statement.

Mr. Fisher was questioned in regard to the proposal that the colonies should be committed to the Commonwealth of the dominions.

The submission of the referendum proposals
at the time of national service was condemned.

The council of the members of the Expeditionary Force in the colonies of the war was investigated by the Royal Commission.

The council of the members of the Expedi-
tionary Force in the colonies of the war was
investigated by the Royal Commission.

It was stated that no ordinance would probably require four or five months to make him fit for the firing line.

A meeting of the State Council, Rose Bay,
was opened by Lady Helen Munro Ferguson.

The British Immigration League's offer of a home at the Globe for hospital purposes
was accepted by the Federal Government.

Many free hospitals have been set up in the State, and the State War Department is the largest in the country.

The destroyers Terrier is to be launched on Sunday, and the cruiser Brisbane on September 1.

The Good in the Wanganella River is the largest for the past 11 years. The river is now flowing.

The Attorney General has stopped the exports of bacon, cheese, and lard beyond the limits of the State.

A strong wind prevailed for bacon, and prices were unchanged. Cheese was very firm.

Prices and bacon were in demand, and sales
were at fair rates.

Eggs were lower.

WARSAW.

STERN STRUGGLE

FEELING IN RUSSIA.

THE ITALIANS.

FIGHT FOR GORIZIA.

A London message states that the public are absorbed in the desperate struggle for Warsaw. The communiques show that the Russians are holding all vital points on the front, and that essential railroads are still intact.

The Germans claim to be investing Ivangorod, but the Austrian communique admits that they are still on the western side of the Vistula and to the north-west of Ivangorod.

Berlin telegrams show that news of the battle is being followed with feverish anxiety in Germany, where the fear of a winter campaign has become a nightmare.

The "Morning Post" correspondent at Petrograd says that there is still no indication of the Grand Duke Nicholas's intentions. Everything points to a plan for holding up the enemy on one front and smashing him on the other.

The battle around Gorizia (on the Isonzo) has now been in progress for many days. The Italian turning movement is sweeping all before it.

The secretary of the United States Navy is making inquiries regarding the speed and capacity of all American merchantmen in order to ensure a sufficient number of fleet auxiliaries. This is regarded as an indication that the Government is considering the possibility of an early war.

Sunday, July 25, has been appointed a day for national prayer. There will be a solemn war service by the King's request on August 4.

ITALY'S CAMPAIGN.

BATTLE NEAR GORIZIA.

ROME, July 23. The battle around Gorizia (on the Isonzo) has been in progress for many days. The Italian turning movement is sweeping all before it. General Cadorna's troops are sweeping the front of eight kilometers. The Germans were also defeated north of Krastow, losing 13,000.

A communiqué states that there has been desperate engagements on the river Vipava, south-west of Kovno and the Riga bridge. Our troops on the left of the Vistula occupy a front from Blonie to Nadajinie, and the outlying defences of Ivangorod. The battle between the Vistula and the Bug is again very desperate, villages changing hands again and again. We cleared the right bank of the Bug in the Sokol region, taking 1500 prisoners in one village.

POLAND.

DESPERATE STRUGGLE.

RAILWAYS STILL INTACT.

RUSSIAN PUBLIC CONFIDENT.

LONDON, July 23. The public are absorbed in the desperate struggle for Warsaw. The communiques show that the Russians are holding all vital points on the front, and the essential railroads are still intact. Though the communiques mention fighting at Rejowice, a village half a mile from the Cholm-Ivangorod railway, the critics point out that the Germans have not yet reached the point west of the Vistula which was reached before they were driven back at the end of 1914.

The Germans claim to be investing Ivangorod, but the Austrian communique admits that they are still on the western side of the Vistula to the north-west of Ivangorod. The Blonie line mentioned in the Petrograd communiqué is about twenty miles west of the Vistula.

Unless his success is speedy General von Mackensen is bound to be troubled by a shortage of supplies. A single German army corps consumes 25 tons daily, apart from ammunition. Fourteen army corps require 700 motor lorries, assuming that a double journey of 120 miles can be performed daily. General von Mackensen formed large magazines during a pause in the fighting near Krasnastor (south-east of Lublin), early in July, but has only one good road.

The "Morning Post" correspondent at Petrograd says that if previous occasions furnish a precedent the stoppage of the enemy on the Cholm-Plaski line is likely to continue. Similarly the Russians continue to keep the enemy at a distance on the Narew front. There is still no indication of the Grand Duke Nicholas's intentions.

Everything points to a plan for holding up the enemy on one front and smashing him on the other.

"It is generally felt in Petrograd," the correspondent adds, "that the situation is serious, one indication of which is the curtness of the bulletins, but the public are confident of a successful issue."

Berlin telegrams show that the battle around Warsaw is being followed with feverish anxiety in Germany, where the fear of a winter campaign has become a nightmare. There is a general belief among the commercial classes that a crushing defeat of the Russians would enable Germany to soon dictate peace.

It is announced that the Russians set

Windau afire before evacuating it. Little of the town remains. The harbour was destroyed.

According to a Geneva message, the "Tribune" states that the Russians north of the Vistula compelled the Austrians to retreat on a front of eight kilometers. The Germans were also defeated north of Krastow, losing 13,000.

A communiqué states that there has been desperate engagements on the river Vipava, south-west of Kovno and the Riga bridge. Our troops on the left of the Vistula occupy a front from Blonie to Nadajinie, and the outlying defences of Ivangorod. The battle between the Vistula and the Bug is again very desperate, villages changing hands again and again. We cleared the right bank of the Bug in the Sokol region, taking 1500 prisoners in one village.

ENEMY REPORTS.

A Vienna communiqué states: We are approaching Ivangorod from the south, and the Germans from the south. The Russians set fire to numerous places west of the Vistula. The battle on the Vistula continues with undiminished stubbornness, the enemy offering顽强的抵抗 (顽强的抵抗).

The Germans on Wednesday night took the main Russian position south-west of Ivangorod, on the line from Kozie-Jawno, which is arranged like a fortress. The retreat over a bridge before Novo-Alexandria (southward of Ivangorod) is already under German artillery fire.

A Berlin report states: Our advancing troops north-east of Shavli on the railway line Vilna to Lublin captured 4150 prisoners, and five machine guns.

An eruption on the Lower Dubissa resulted in the attackers entering the district of Gryfki-Ksi, Gudishay. Several of the Russian posts were stormed. The Russians are retreating on the entire front from Lake Bialow to the Niemen. We enlarged the breach in the Russian lines south of Marispol, on the Kovno-road, and gained further ground eastward, capturing four officers, 120 men, and four machine guns.

The whole slope of Podgora is cut up by trenches, with sited armoured batteries and vast fortresses behind, where the Austrians rest. They keep strong reserves.

The Russians south of the Vistula have been pressed back into an enlarged bridge-head position on Warsaw.

General Von Woyszki's army, by a bold attack, frustrated the enemy's last attempt to arrest retreat before Ivangorod. Our soldiers, with sited armoured batteries and vast fortresses behind, where the Austrians rest.

One Italian regiment, which was almost surrounded, was almost surrounded by overwhelming forces, but the colonel rushed forward, and holding the column led a wild bayonet charge, shouting "Avanti Savoia!" The Austrians were routed.

Elsewhere a captain led a battalion through six charges, smoking cigarettes throughout. There was a short truce to bury the dead. The Austrian commander sent a message that he had never seen such a daring colonel nor a captain who showed such coolness. General Cadorna is almost attempting the reduction of Tolmino, which is almost surrounded.

A Vienna communiqué states that the defenders of the Dabrodo Plateau bravely repelled all attacks. The Italians took up their advance in the Polazzo sector, and attacked at night. All the assaults were repelled by the early morning.

There was great bloodshed. We counter attacked at Sistrassina, and recaptured all positions. The Italians continually brought up fresh forces to the bridge-head at Podgora. Ten infantry regiments in succession made brave attacks. The battle developed into hand-to-hand fighting. Three assaults failed. The enemy pierced some parts of our trenches, but were repelled during the night. The battle is still unde-

UNITED STATES.

SIGNIFICANT ACTION.

WASHINGTON, July 23. With a view to preventing a recurrence of the shortage of ships experienced during the Spanish-American war, Mr. J. Daniels (Secretary of the Navy) is ascertaining the need and capacity of all American merchantmen in order to ensure a sufficient number of fleet auxiliaries. This is regarded as an indication that the Government is considering the possibility of an early war.

FINANCIAL.

NEED OF ECONOMY.

OUR SAVINGS FOR THE WAR.

The war forces upon us increasingly the need of economy, both in public and in private life. But in this way we do not mean that the people should forego all enjoyment because, as Lord Crewe pointed out, such a course would break the heart of the nation.

But we are not economical in our pleasure, but we do it so far as the saying is.

A country which is self-supporting and self-reliant can carry on war indefinitely. If the people are resolved to give all their services to the State, and if there can do without imports, which means that they can also do without exports, then there should be no difficulty in finding a sufficient amount of money to sustain the war.

The total war capital is £3,638,000, and the capital expenditure £42,482, including £1,072 made during the half-year.

MAITLAND GASLIGHT.

The above company in the half-year ended June 30 made a net profit of £12,782, which is available for distribution.

A dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum is proposed, absorbing £1,072, leaving £1,710 available for distribution.

The total war capital is £3,638,000, and the capital expenditure £42,482, including £1,072 made during the half-year.

NEWCASTLE AND HUNTER RIVER.

The half-yearly report of the above company in the half-year ended June 30 shows a net profit of £3,000, which, with £6,496 brought forward, makes £4,496 available for distribution.

A dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum is proposed, absorbing £3,000, leaving £696 to be carried forward.

The total war capital is £3,638,000, and the capital expenditure £42,482, including £1,072 made during the half-year.

COMMERCIAL.

CHEMICAL VERY FIRM.

The position of the chemical market was a very satisfactory one. All the principal suppliers had agreed to accept orders at full rates. The inquiry for bluestone was limited, but nevertheless small lots came in at 23/- per cwt, and parcels 23/- per cwt.

The inquiry for carbon of tartar

was in average demand, and both 5 per cent.

and 9 per cent. were quoted from 2/3 to 2/3 per lb.

The inquiry for tartaric acid was limited, and 2/3 and 4/- per lb.

The inquiry for oil of camphor, and therefore cannot be said to be the only commodities which are to be imported, and also seems to be import the former through neutral countries without any great difficulty. At the same time, the inquiry for oil of camphor is obtained. It is seen that even if the Germans are not able to maintain Germany will be in a position to import what is required.

The inquiry for oil of camphor is not as yet as say as Germany will be bankrupt, and that Austria-Hungary

is already bankrupt. Nations in a state of bankruptcy have had to before day,

as there has been no need to import.

But, of course, when disaster comes, it is not the more severe, and its effects are more maintained.

POSITION OF AUSTRALIA.

With regard to our own case—that of ourselves—the need for it is at once apparent.

The Prime Minister has told us that the war lasts another 12 months, and it

we propose to maintain an army of the full strength of 100,000 men in the field, and will cost us 40 million sterling, all of which must be raised in Australia. That means the cost of the war, which, in ordinary circumstances, would go to development work and private enterprise, and income which would be used in assisting luxuries, must now be devoted to the war. A loan of 20 million is to be provided for, and a part of that, though

at all, will be obtained by taxation.

The loan will come out of capital.

With a loan of 20 million, there will be 20 million less money for putting into our industrial life; there will be less money saved and converted into capital to be spent on luxury and pleasure. A loan of 20 million will be spent on luxury, and it will be obtained by taxation. But, of course, we will not be able to say that the loss is not as great

as it would be if all the money was expended in the Commonwealth. It must never be forgotten that war is destruction; that capital spent on war is just as if the capital had been consumed by a furnace. There is no room for it, and the consumption of luxury is just like a match capital burnt down. The consumption of metals in luxury clothing is worn out more quickly;

men are withdrawn from productive employment; and over and above all there is the loss and malady of human life, which is greater than the productive

power of the nation.

GENERAL OF NON-WAR EXPENDITURE.

The loss of war cannot go on, but it is a very power somewhat to minimise its effects, and to provide that when peace comes the effort to restore our normal life shall be attained with success. As we have shown

there must be curtailment in our private and public expenditure, apart from the war. The latter, as far as loan is concerned, is not being forced on us, but the funds to be raised on the war are to be immediately past.

For the country is a good thing. We are sending out one hundred thousand men away.

The number of men we believe we have come out of our primary industries. The season for work would be a fruitful one.

But, of course, we must make the

most of our resources, and if private

expenditure is reduced, there must be some curtailment

in business, even beyond the curtailment which high prices in many lines has brought about. The motto, "Business as usual" was written at the beginning of the war. It is a motto which would be a good one.

But, of course, we must make the

VALUES STILL RISING.

The surroundings of the Stock Exchange still continue depressing. In these circumstances there are few buyers. Sellers predominate and the effect is to make values; hence the few transactions recorded are consistently on the easy side. True, the fight being made by scrip-holders, at frequent rates in most cases, as if they were loth to make concessions in the face of fairly well-arranged events, is a factor which permits of metal-producing mines working at profitable rates.

But this is not the only consideration that enters into the calculations of the operators. The chief factor is the willingness of the market to buy stocks. With buyers there is always a prospect of the market making more money. With sellers dominating the position stagnation is certain. A glance at the list of sales records will show that sales in the easy scrip were dealt in on every line, with one exception was Wild Cherry (cont.), which changed hands on the up grade. Taken altogether, however, prices were on the slack side.

GRAIN ELEVATORS.

INSPECTION OF PROPOSED SITE.

Mr. Graham, Minister for Agriculture, who was accompanied by Mr. Ashton, Minister for Lands, Mr. Valder, Director of Agriculture, and Mr. Adam, of the Harbour Trust, visited a site which it is proposed to erect a temporary grain elevator. If erected, a temporary grain elevator will be erected on the site of this notice, and on ground to be stated in due course, and will be used for the storage of grain, the site of which is estimated to amount to 10 acres, or a large portion of the land. The idea is to have a large scheme of wheat handling, and a grain elevator at Newcastle and at a grain handling station on the railway line between Sydney and the northern part of the state. The existing grain elevators at the northern part of the state are not less than the number of 100 or 120. Any person may apply to the Minister for Agriculture, Melbourne, for a copy of the Act, and the Minister will be pleased to advise him of the circumstances of which they hold store.
